

Valentine's Day White Chocolate Bark Bites by Lynn's Recipes

Lynn demonstrates how to make these cute and simple Valentine's Day Treats, White Chocolate Bark Bites. These are versatile and can be made with different sprinkles and white or dark chocolate. Great for a Valentine's Day Treat. Found on Pinterest, number-2-pencil.com.

Makes approximately 12 hearts, depending on what kind of silicone mold you have. Mine made 6 large hearts.

These are made in a heart shaped silicone mold. I found mine at Hobby Lobby, but Wilton makes one, as well.

Ingredients:

- 1 (12 ounce) package of Ghiradelli White Melting Wafers (almond bark would work, as well)
- M&M's
- Valentine's Day Sprinkles or whatever toppings you desire

Make sure your silicone mold is clean and dry.

Place the mold on a baking sheet.

Add a few M&M's and a dash of sprinkles into each mold.

Follow the directions on your package of melting wafers to melt.

Pour melted white chocolate into each cavity.

Tap baking sheet firmly on counter to level out the melted chocolate.

Let them cool until hardened. Pop out of mold and enjoy!
